

Transcript

Rocky Mountaineer Rockies to the Red Rocks

[Feel-good guitar is playing in the background throughout the video]

00:00:00 - 00:00:03 [Video: The sun rising over the city of Denver. Rocky Mountaineer logo appears in gold.]

Voiceover >> As you drift away from the lively city of Denver,

00:00:04 - 00:00:07 [Video: Snow-capped mountains in the distance with a lush green forested valley.]

Voiceover >> The sun wakes the Colorado Rockies,

00:00:08 - 00:00:11 [Video: A brilliantly blue river, weaves through red rocks on either side with a train track crossing at its narrowest.]

Voiceover >> and you begin your journey, through landscapes that have been transformed over millennia,

00:00:12 - 00:00:16 [Video: A couple walks through the train smiling at other guests while finding their seats.]

Voiceover >> and it feels as though it was all created just for you.

00:00:17 - 00:00:19 [Video: A red screen appears with 'Rockies to the Red Rocks' and the route logo displayed in white text.]

00:00:19 - 00:00:23 [Video: The red screen stays while the route is shown in white. Moab to Glenwood Springs to Denver, with reference to the two states travelled through (Utah and Colorado).]

00:00:23 - 00:00:27 [Video: A train track runs through a farm valley in the Autumn, with yellow-leafed trees. The red route logo appears, and 'Day 1' is displayed in white text. 'Denver' to 'Glenwood Springs' is displayed in white text.]

00:00:27 - 00:00:34 [Video: The train follows a circular track in dessert plains with foothills in the distance. The red route logo is displayed, and 'Big 10 Curve' is displayed in white text.]

Voiceover >> Roaming through breathtaking plains, you reach an engineering marvel known as the Big 10 Curve.

00:00:34 - 00:00:36 [Video: A Bald Eagle soars through the air.]

00:00:36 - 00:00:39 [Video: A couple is talking while seated.]

Voiceover >> Relax in comfort,

00:00:39 - 00:00:46 [Video: A train goes through a mountainside tunnel. The red route logo appears and 'Moffat Tunnel' is displayed in white text.]

Voiceover >> as you cut through six miles of hand-blasted rock in the historic Moffat Tunnel, where you cross the continental divide.

00:00:46 - 00:00:48 [Video: A woman is looking out from the outside viewing platform.]

00:00:49 - 00:00:54 [Video: A train is following a rocky cliff. The red route logo appears, and 'Byers Canyon' is displayed in white text.]

Voiceover >> Take in majestic canyons...

00:00:54 - 00:00:59 [Video: View from above shows the train following the river with cliffs on the left side.]

Voiceover >> slowly carved away by the Colorado River on its long march to the Pacific Ocean.

00:00:59 - 00:01:05 [Video: The train is traveling away, curving between red canyons.]

Voiceover >> As you travel along tracks stitched into towering red canyons...

00:01:05 - 00:01:07 [Video: A host is pouring white wine.]

Voiceover >> indulge in world class service...

00:01:07 - 00:01:09 [Video: A chocolate dessert is being topped with an orange gooseberry.]

00:01:09 - 00:01:12 [Video: A host is making a toast with the guests onboard.]

Voiceover >> from our glass-dome coaches.

00:01:12 - 00:01:18 [Video: The train is travelling through a canyon with green-leafed trees.]

Voiceover >> Mind along endless captivating canyon walls,

00:01:18 - 00:01:20 [Video: The town of Glenwood Springs is shown, nestled between the Rocky Mountain foothills. The red route logo is shown, and 'Glenwood Springs' is displayed in white text.]

Voiceover >> before arriving at the historic town of Glenwood Springs,

00:01:20 - 00:01:24 [Video: A geothermal pool is shown with red rocks in the background.]

Voiceover >> famous for its geothermal amenities.

00:01:24 - 00:01:28 [Video: The train travels across the screen with grey rocks directly behind and taller, tan rocks just behind the grey. The red route logo is shown, 'Day 2' and 'Glenwood Springs' to 'Moab' appears in white text.]

00:01:28 - 00:01:36 [Video: The train travels in front of a large rock formation with blue skies in the distance.]

Voiceover >> Begin your day exploring the monumental Debeque Canyon, part of Grande Mesa, the worlds largest flat-topped mountain.

00:01:36 - 00:01:44 [Video: The train travels across the screen through farmland with the tall, Mount Garfield in the background.]

Voiceover >> Then witness the glory of Mount Garfield standing proudly at over 6700 feet, its sure to be a high point.

00:01:44 - 00:01:47 [Video: Guests gather to one side of the train to capture pictures.]

Voiceover >> its sure to be a high point.

00:01:47 - 00:01:58 [Video: The train curves around a beautiful deep red coloured rock. The red route logo and 'Ruby Canyon' in white text appear.]

Voiceover >> The surreal beauty of the crimson-stained cliffs surrounds you, displaying millions of years of erosion, as you cross Ruby Canyon.

00:01:58 - 00:02:01 [Video: A close-up of two guests smiling.]

00:02:01 - 00:02:04 [Video: The train travels through a valley.]

00:02:04 - 00:02:13 [Video: The train crosses the screen with red rocks in the background. The red route logo and 'Moab' in white text are displayed.]

Voiceover >> Finally you approach Moab, as the red sandstone mountains that the American Southwest are so famous for come into view.

00:02:13 – 00:02:16 [Video: The red rocks are shown in the valley through a red rock arch from above.]

Voiceover >> This is your gateway, to the mighty five National Parks.

00:02:16– 00:02:18 [Video: Tall red rock cliffs are shown in the foreground with the snow-capped Rocky Mountains in the background.]

00:02:18 – 00:02:24 [Video: The train travels through a tunnel in the rocky mountainside.]

Voiceover >> From the Rockies to the Red Rocks

00:02:24 – 00:02:32 [Video: The train travels through a valley, a blue river on one side and the red rock sandstone on the other.]

Voiceover >> this ever-changing journey captures the unimaginable magistry of this unique place, that has been a million years in the making.

00:02:32 – 00:02:38 [Video: A royal blue background appears with the Rocky Mountaineer logo in gold and 'All Aboard Amazing' displayed in white text.]